Information can be found on the following communities in the subsequent references. As stated previously, we cannot vouch for the absolute accuracy of the information contained within each reference, particularly when the information relates to another host context (e.g. Australia, USA etc) and when the source is relatively dated.

NOTE: Some of the information is extensive, some limited to one 'knowledge area'. With respect to all the information, but particularly the latter, you may need to do some further research. There are many more sources of information available on the Internet and elsewhere. Google searches under each community – and others – is recommended as a starting point.
